Test 4 | Recorder: Rachael | Date: 11/14/23

User Demographics - Age: 76 - Pronouns: She / Her / Hers - Race/Ethnicity: White

Image	Location	Interface Feature	Type of Problem	Description/Notes	Severity
	Home page	Label	Confusing	User was confused about what "6 hours" stat meant on the homepage.	1 - nominal
	Student Loan Module - Lesson 6	Label	Confusing	In lesson 6, the user was confused about tabs - the user clicked on the federal loan tab even though it was already selected. User also noted she believed FAFSA was only federal. Check that the content is correct.	4 - critical
	Student Loan Module - Lesson 6	Label	Confusing	User confused about what "previous lesson" button is about and where it would bring her.	3 - major
	Quiz Share Results	Control	Awkward	User wanted an exit button on the "share results" page and to be able to return to the previous page.	3 - major
	Share Modules / Share Quiz	Control	Desired function	User suggested that we add the option to send a comment/note when sharing modules or quiz results with other users.	2 - minor

Test 5 | Recorder: Mya | Date: 11/15/23

User Demographics - Age: 29 - Pronouns: He / Him / His - Race/Ethnicity: Asian

Image	Location	Interface Feature	Type of Problem	Description/Notes	Severity
	Home Page	Label	Confusing	Unclear what "current modules" means. User asked, "are they all learning modules or does that mean something else?"	3 - major
	Student Loans Module Overview	Graphic	Confusing	Unsure if the unfilled 6 meant it wasn't started yet. Feedback: system state heuristic (checkmarks for completed lessons and numbers for incomplete)	3 - major
	Student Loans Module Overview	Control	Distracting Error handling	Feedback: start over button is a drastic change, if the user hits it on accident they may lose all their progress, instead there should just be a large continue button. User asked, "if I do 5 out of 6 modules, why would I start over?"	4 - critical
	Modules page - Student Loan > Federal + Private Buttons	Screen	Confusing	The user did not remember what lesson came before this one, so they were not sure if they should click the previous lesson.	3 - major

 Exit Submit   Modules Quizzes Home Family Search 	Quiz Page > Share Results	Dialogue Page	Missing	No back button if you accidentally click "share results" what if you want to go back to review instead? All you can do is move forward or exit	4 - critical

Analysis of Feedback

Home Page: Two out of the five users tested noted general confusion regarding the homepage's "6 Hours" accomplishment label at the top of the page. The user from the second usability test further questioned what the six hours meant in regards to accomplishments, they wondered if the label referred to six hours learned, six hours left, or six hours of content/modules shared.

Modules: When beginning the module, all five users expressed confusion regarding the "Start Over" button on the Student Loans Module overview page. Similarly, within the module overview section, users suggested displaying check marks next to modules completed in addition to the colored-in number icons. Users were unsure whether they should click on the "Start Over" button or the "Continue" button because it was not clear where each button would take them within the module. Furthermore, the "Previous Lesson" button within the modules page was confusing to three out of five users. Users were unsure of the functionality of the button and were looking for an "Exit" button in the same location.

Another common usability issue within the module section was that users would not view the "Private Loans" tab. Thus, they would scroll to the bottom of the page and attempt to move on to take the quiz, but the "Take Quiz" button was disabled because the user had not viewed the "Private Loans" tab. However, this created frustration because the users were not able to identify the action required to enable the "Take Quiz" button.

Quizzes: In the quiz portion of the app, our usability tests led us to key findings. One finding was that there is no student loan quiz option on the Quiz home page, meaning that when users tried to access the quiz via the bottom navigation bar, they could not. Additionally, one user mentioned wanting to receive immediate feedback during the quiz about correct and incorrect answers. Another user expressed wanting to see a progress bar on the quiz. Upon exiting the quiz, the prototype returns to the quiz home page. Two users expressed wishing it returned to the end of the Student Loan module. Three users expressed wanting to utilize a back button on module and quiz pages. One user clicked share results on accident but had to redo the entire learning module and take the quiz to get back to his previous spot.

Other: User 3 was particularly attentive to the navigation bars and noticed that the top navigation bar was inappropriately scrolling on all screens. Additionally, user 3 suggested that the bottom navigation bar disappear once the module and quiz screens were selected. They noted that this would enhance the user's ability to focus on learning or quiz content. Additionally, as mentioned in the "quizzes section", users 3, 4, and 5 wanted the ability to use a back button on module and quiz screens, which was not available to the user.

Plan to Fix Issues and Address Feedback

Home Page: Based on user feedback, we plan to identify exactly what the “6 Hours” label pertains to. We intend to do this by adding “6 Hours of Learning” to the label to ensure that users understand exactly what the six hours pertain to, and accordingly how to bolster this accomplishment in the future if they so choose.

Modules: To address the usability issues identified in the modules section, we plan to add check marks next to the lessons completed within the module overview section. This will clearly identify which lessons the users have completed and which they still need to complete.

Additionally, we plan to address the confusion regarding the “Start Over” and “Continue” buttons by removing them and turning each lesson in the module overview list into a button. This will allow users to click on the lesson they would like to take and start from their desired starting point in the module.

To address the confusion of the “Private” and “Federal” tabs within lesson 1, we plan to eliminate the tabs and separate the content into two separate lessons. This will mitigate the confusion of the content separated by tabs and will make the content more visible to the user.

Additionally, we plan to remove the “Previous Lesson” button and replace it with an “Exit & Save” button. This will allow users to exit the module while saving their progress. Finally, we will create a summary/success page after the user has completed the module which will provide the user with options to take the quiz, return to the module home page, or navigate to the quiz home page.

Quizzes: To address the heuristic evaluation issues identified in the quiz portion of the task we will start by incorporating a “Student Loan” quiz card on the quiz home page. Users also expressed interest in the addition of a progress bar while taking quizzes, which we will incorporate. Next, we will improve quizzes by providing instant feedback after each question about correct/incorrect answers, as well as redirecting users back to the student loan module summary/success page upon exiting.

Other: Based on user feedback, we will modify that top navigation bar to ensure it’s stagnant while content is scrolling. Additionally, after discussing feedback and revisiting other learning platforms, we decided to remove the bottom navigation bar on all module and quiz pages. Additionally, the top navigation bar will be modified in module and quiz pages, replacing the hamburger menu with a back button, and replacing the profile icon with a share and favorite button.
